

ABSTRACT

Disclosed is a pen type input device with a camera which is improved usability, by improving construction of the device. The pen type input device with the camera is construction adapting
5 for both of horizontally elongated and vertically elongated object. On the other hand, means for pointing the object and the process content simultaneously, and further means for detecting the user pointing the object in erroneous manner and teaching correct manner of teaching of the object depending 10 thereon are provided.